Ask 3 Questions

Become more involved in decisions about your healthcare. You may be asked to make choices about your treatment. To begin with, try to make sure you get the answers to three key questions:

1. What are my options?
2. What are the pros and cons of each option for me?
3. How do I get support to help me make a decision that is right for me?

How We Use Your Information

For details on how we collect, use and store the information we hold about you, please take a look at our "how we use your information" leaflet which can be found on the Trust website:

http://www.wwl.nhs.uk/patient_information/leaflets/

This leaflet is also available in audio, large print, braille and other languages upon request.
For more information please ask in department/ward.

What are they?

Otherwise known as cherry angiomas, these are little reddish spots and are very common and are caused by small areas of blood vessel overgrowth. They become more common with increasing age and are often found on the chest and back. It is usual to have several and sometimes many of them. They are not pre-cancerous and are not related to sun exposure.

How are they treated?

These small spots rarely cause any problems and therefore no treatment is required.
