Who we are

Dietitians are members of a group of health workers called allied health professionals.

The Macmillan Allied Health Professionals Team based at Wigan and Leigh Hospice includes a Dietitian.

Our role

To assess, treat and advise on any dietary and nutritional problems you have.

Our aims

- To listen and offer support and advice.
- To enable you to identify realistic goals to maintain or maximise your nutritional health and quality of life.
- To prevent any potential problems with your nutritional health.
- To equip you with skills and knowledge to enable you to self-manage your symptoms.
- To reassess and re-evaluate your changing needs.

What we do

With your agreement we will ask questions about a range of topics which may include:

- Medical history and diagnosis
- Current medication and treatments
- Usual and current weight
- Food and fluids intake
- Family and support.

We may need to weigh you and measure your height. We may also look at your hands, ankles and face for any signs of nutritional deficiencies.

We will explain fully and clearly the advantages and disadvantages of the options available to you.

All our contact with you will be with your consent.

Our treatments

Together we will agree an individual treatment plan to address your needs.

This may include:

- Advice and support
- Management of symptoms such as poor bowel function, weight loss, altered body image, nausea and vomiting, taste changes and dry mouth.
- Information on managing your nutritional health and to help improve your quality of life.

With your consent we will involve your carers and family with the treatment plan if needed.
