Introduction

Preparation for school begins in the very earliest stages of a child's life. This leaflet aims to help you understand what you can do to get your child off to the best start, to be school ready!

Why is school readiness important?

Children who enter school ready to learn are more likely to succeed at school and achieve throughout their life.

Encouraging physical, social and emotional development through play is the key to school readiness.

School readiness has three layers:

- Ready children – prepared for learning and development
- Ready families – positive about learning, creating opportunities for your child's early learning and development at home and at school
- Ready schools - quality education and learning environments that are child friendly and flexible to your child's needs

School readiness begins at birth!

School readiness is taught through play!

Attachment with main carer is the foundation for all developmental milestones to be achieved.

Responding to your child's needs is key to supporting their growth and development. Maintain a stimulating home environment by:

- Talking to your baby or child
- Singing to and with your baby or child
- Reading and looking at books with your baby or child
- Providing opportunities for floor play and tummy time

You can help your child get ready for school by:

- Practising counting, saying letters, identifying shapes and colours
- Providing regular bedtime and meal-time routines
- Opportunities for play – with you and with other children
- Developing your child's independence when using the toilet, hand washing and dressing
