Background

Access requests for fertility records can be made by patients wishing to view their own records, or by an individual acting on the authority of the patient (for example, by written authorisation exercising parental rights or court appointment).

The patient’s personal representative or someone with a claim arising from the death of the patient can make applications for access to a deceased person’s fertility records.

Applications for requests to access fertility records should be made to the organisation holding the relevant records (named in this leaflet as the Record Holder). For example, this could be your hospital, general practitioner (GP) or private health care provider.

The application form for access to fertilityrecords is at the end of this leaflet. One application per partner must be completed.

This is for records held by Wrightington, Wigan and Leigh Teaching Hospitals NHS F oundation Trust.

Rights

The Data Protection Act 2018 governs the request for the public to have access to their health records. This Act gives certain rights of access, but the Record Holder is entitled to withhold information considered to be detrimental to the physical or mental health of the patient or other person, or if it contains information given by a third party. The Record Holder does not have to disclose the fact that the information has been withheld.

You can ask for corrections to the records and you are entitled to a copy of the correction, or, if the record is not corrected, you are entitled to a copy of the Record Holder's note of the request and any discussion regarding this.

The Trust must respond to your application within one calendar month. However if a request is deemed to be complex this is extended by a further two calendar months. Complex requests are those which involve the retrieval, interrogation and electronic capture of any paper records.

Receiving or Accessing the Records

Records will be sent out to you in paper form via the postal service, or can be collected by prior arrangement at Fertility Fusion. If you would prefer to view the records please indicate this by ticking the box on the application form below. Complaints
